

ARMISTICE NOT YET EFFECTIVE

Japanese Envoys Refuse To Enter Into Agree- ment To Cease All Hostilities.

MUST SIGN PEACE TREATY FIRST

Clash Of Arms Is Not Yet Settled--Japanese Army Hears That Peace Has Been Decided Upon At Portsmouth.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.] Cunhsue Pass, Sept. 2.—The first intimation of the agreement between the plenipotentiaries was printed today in the army organ. Arrangements are being made for a new truce zone between the armies, pending a dispersal. The foreign military attaches are preparing to take formal leave and the commanders are expecting recalls.

At Portsmouth
Portsmouth, Sept. 2.—The first draft of the treaty is completed. The engrossing clerks from Washington arrived this morning. The treaty consists of fifteen articles, but some are very brief. The envoys meet this afternoon at the hotel and will sign the protocol on Tuesday.

Dennison's Statement
The meeting of the treaty framers adjourned at twelve-forty-five. Dennison says a few minor points are to be adjusted, but that the treaty has been practically completed for the inspection of the envoys at this afternoon's meeting, when it is understood the divergent views as to phraseology will be harmonized. At one o'clock Dennison announced in response to an inquiry that no message had been received from the Emperor of Japan for five days. He admitted that the drawing up of the armistice on Friday was taken by the Japanese envoys on their own responsibility.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 2.—A surprise was sprung on Mr. Witte and his associates when the Russians were informed that the nikado's orders concerning an armistice did not provide for an immediate cessation of hostilities.

Not until the treaty of peace is signed will Japan consent formally to declare the war at an end. The Russians protested against this procedure, but the Japanese clung to their contention that they were not bound to declare an armistice before the treaty became a reality.

The Russian plenipotentiaries, accompanied by their secretaries, called on Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira and were in conference with them for half an hour. Japan having indicated last night through Baron Komura her willingness for an armistice, Mr. Witte supposed that he would find them ready to sign.

Japanese Are Insistent.
Baron Komura explained that while his government was ready to consent to an armistice, his instructions were that this should not take effect until after the signing of the treaty. The discussion lasted for half an hour, the Russian position being that Japan's contention was without precedent, and that if the armistice was not to take effect until the signing of the treaty it was practically unnecessary.

However, the Japanese were insistent, and an agreement was accordingly entered into providing for an armistice which shall take effect the moment the treaty is signed.

It will then continue until the final exchange of ratification of the emperors of the two countries. It is for this reason that the plenipotentiaries, who

DOCKS, WHEAT AND LUMBER YARDS BURN

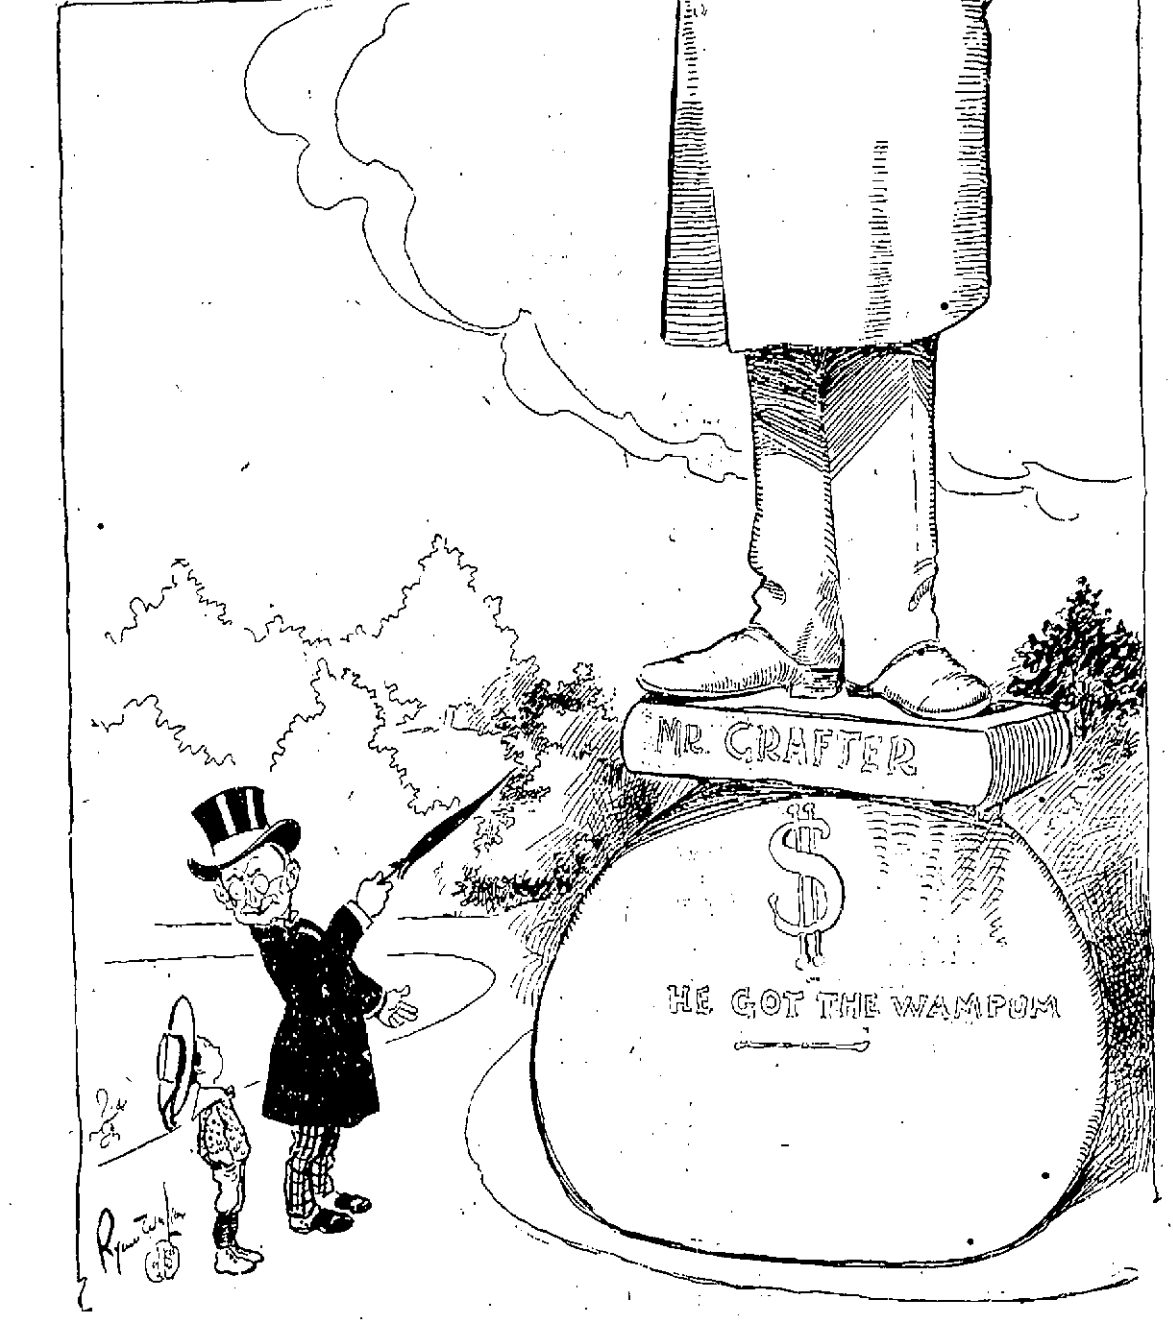

Loss by Fire of Unknown Origin at Portland, Ore., Will Be $350,000.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 2.—The elevator dock was destroyed and the Albina dock badly damaged by fire, entailing a loss of $350,000, divided between the Pacific Coast Elevator company and the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company. The docks lay on the east side of the Willamette river in the Albina yards of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, and contained a large quantity of new wheat.

The fire consumed the docks in less than half an hour. It then jumped the river, which is a third of a mile wide at that point, to the lumber yards of the Eastern and Western Lumber company.

Sixty thousand bushels of wheat were destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Miss Hawthorne Weds.
New York, Sept. 2.—The wedding of Miss Gwendolen Hawthorne, daughter of Mrs. Julian Hawthorne, to Michael Andrew Mikkelson, of St. Paul, Minn., took place here today at the home of the bride's mother. Miss Hawthorne is the granddaughter of the late novelist Hawthorne.

WILL IT COME TO THIS? A GLANCE IN THE FUTURE.
Father—Yes, he is one of our greatest men. In the foolish simple day s, they used to erect monuments to some people they called "patriots"—but that ended years and years ago.

MITCHELL'S APPEAL TO BE DECIDED SOON

United States Circuit Court Convenes at Portland, Oregon--Sen- tor's Case, Prominent.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Portland, Ore., Sept. 2.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals meets here today. Judges Morrow, Gilbert and Ross are sitting, and will determine the points of law in the cases and give their opinions. One of the chief appeals will be the case of Senator Mitchell. If the petition for a new trial is denied Mitchell will probably be sentenced a short time after.

COURTMARTIAL WAITS CAPTAIN TAGGART

No Matter How Trial Comes Out Against His Wife, He Is To Be Tried.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.] Wooster, O., Sept. 2.—Whether or not he wins the divorce suit, Capt.
Taggart must stand a trial by court-martial. An army officer says a court-martial is waiting, being the result of the divorce case, because of the amended petition in the divorce trial is the basis of charges in a court-martial. Capt. James Taylor, attorney for Mrs. Taggart, says it is practically certain that Lieut. Porteus files charges against Taggart. Mrs.
Taggart will be a witness against her husband in a courtmartial which hears the charges filed by General Miner.
This morning was spent in reading the depositions of army officers, who said the captain was sober and to the best of their knowledge treated his wife and children kindly. Major Newberry, who was associated with Taggart in Manila and who knew Augustina, is coming to testify on Monday. Witnesses are coming from Orville to contradict "Billy" Taggart's testimony. "Billy" will be placed on the stand against himself. The judge is anxious to finish the case. It was decided to hold court Labor day. It is expected the evidence will be all in and arguments completed by Thursday.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY CONFER IN SECRET

Commissioners Say Negotiations Are Not Sufficiently Advanced To Be Made Public.

Karlstad, Sept. 2.—At today's meeting of the Swedish and Norwegian commissioners the Swedish conditions for dissolution were submitted.
The utmost secrecy was maintained, the announcement being made, that the negotiations are not sufficiently advanced to admit of an official statement.

Stockholm, Sept. 2.—The Dagblad has received a telegram from Christiana saying that immediately after the morning session of the commissioners at Karlstad a high Christiania authority received information that the negotiations might last for weeks, and perhaps for months. This would indicate that some of the conditions are unacceptable.

Copenhagen, Sept. 2.—Well-informed persons believe that Sweden will give up her claim for the razing of the fortresses on the Norwegian frontier, being satisfied if they are not armed.
The Swedish court favors the candidacy of Prince Charles of Sweden for the Norwegian throne, but it is not certain that the riksdag will accept the Norwegian offer of 100,000 crowns yearly as an allowance for the eventual king.

OBSERVE DAY WITH MILITARY DISPLAY

Great Parade in German Capital, and Royal Receptions Commemo- rate Battle of Sedan.

London, Sept. 2.—A new Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance, much broader in scope than the old one, has been signed. The official announcement, is, however, that the publication of the new treaty is being deferred until after the commission at Portsmouth conclude their conference. The new treaty must mean that Great Britain and Japan have entered into an offensive and defensive alliance instead of the merely defensive arrangement which existed between them until the other day.
The new treaty was the direct cause of the postponement of the general election in England, and the continuance of Mr. Balfour in power. The King was said to desire the definite settlement of the matter while the present government was in power.
It was known that the liberals did not take exactly the same view of the relations of Great Britain and Japan and England as their opposents. If they come into power six months from now, they will not dare to interfere with the Anglo-Japanese alliance, although should the opportunity come they might not be so anxious to act in accordance with the treaty the conservatives would be.
At the same time much would depend on the statesmen who happened to be at the head of the British Foreign office. In view of the strained relations of Great Britain and Germany, the Anglo-Japanese Alliance is a very different thing from the Franco-Russian and the Triple Alliance, which are now alliances in name and nothing more.

CANADA'S HIGH DIVER IS EXHIBITING IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 2.—Hector Demers, Canada's expert high and fancy diver, representing the Toronto Swimming Club, will unfold a line of interesting and sensational dives at the diving contest held at Travers island today. This diving contest is the first of its kind to be held here for some years, and will bring together America's best divers. Demers not only can make a double foot somersault dive, but he can also make an ordinary plain dive, without hardly a splash, and here lies his superiority. On account of their failure to enter the water cleanly, the German divers lost all chance of winning the recent world's championship at St. Louis.

GENERAL MILES' SON RETURNS.

London, Sept. 2.—Sherman Miles and Lieutenant J. S. Hammond, both of whom went abroad with General Miles, sailed from here today for the United States. General Miles took them with him through Brussels, Berlin, Greece, Naples, Paris and back again to London, and used his acquaintance with the foreign officials to enable the young lieutenants to get an insight into foreign military affairs, both having just passed their examinations at West Point before going abroad.

STRONGER ENGLISH JAPANESE ALLIANCE

New Treaty, Binding Countries in Offensive and Defensive Agree- ment, Drawn Up.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Berlin, Sept. 2.—Sedan Day was observed here today by a parade of the Potsdam and Berlin garrisons, numbering thirty thousand troops.
All the household regiments took part in the display. Riding with the emperor in the reviewing party were Prince Henry and twenty other members of the royal family, a number of other princes and the foreign military attaches, among them being Captain William S. Biddle, Jr., the American Attaché, and some other foreign guests, including the Earl of Lonsdale. It was a splendid spectacle, as usual in the case of these autumn parades. The Empress in a white uniform, led the Queen's Fusiliers, of which she is colonel. The Emperor afterwards entertained the commanding generals and foreign guests at breakfast.

TWENTY DAYS FOR A BICYCLE THIEF

Fred M. Martie, Who Had Beat His Way East From Spokane, Got in Trouble Here.

Fred M. Martie, whose home is said to be in Marion, was arrested in Beloit last evening on the charge of stealing a bicycle from Gus Mander of Chicago, who is engaged in the sewer construction work on South River street, early yesterday morning. Mander thought one of the workmen had borrowed the wheel until it failed to put in an appearance with noon. Then he communicated with the police. Chief Scheibel laid hands on the young man late in the afternoon and he was brought here by Officer Brown last evening. In seventeen years old and had been wandering in the west, beating his way back from Spokane, Wash., as far as Janesville.
Here he found himself in need of money and stole the wheel with the idea of selling it in Beloit. Judge Field fined him $15 and costs, amounting in all to $21.05, and in default of payment he went to the county jail for 20 days.

FEVER-SCARED PEOPLE RETURN

Improved Conditions Lead Many Who Had Fled, To Return To New Orleans.

OUTLOOK IN STATE IS VERY BAD

Authorities Fear The Infection Has Spread To All The Big Sugar Plantations--Yellow Fever in New York City.

NEW ORLEANS FEVER RECORD.
New cases yesterday 39
Deaths yesterday 4
Total number cases to date 1,971 Total deaths to date 288 New foci of infection 10

New Orleans, Sept. 2.—Friday's fever record of thirty-nine new cases, four deaths and ten new points of infection is the best day's report since the tide turned for the good. It is in line with the confidence now expressed in the city that the worst is over and that the federal forces are now in command of the situation. People are beginning to return to the city and there is a noticeable spurt in business and financial circles. In the state the situation is not so good and the outlook is even gloomier. Fear is expressed that the infection has penetrated the Italian settlement on nearly every big sugar estate in south Louisiana. The grinding season is fast approaching, and unless the disease can be conquered there will be a famine in labor to harvest the sugar crop. The country parishes are now completely tied up with quarantines.

Pest Case at New York.
New York, Sept. 2.—Henry R. Wardell, an American employee of the Panama railroad, is seriously ill with yellow fever in the quarantine hospital on Swinburne island. Wardell was one of six passengers taken off the steamer Havana.

Death at Pensacola.
Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 2.—The first death from yellow fever occurred pired. He was stricken two days ago.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Gov. Cox the governors of all the southern states:

"Will you join with the governors and commercial orders in a call for a and quarantine to be held at Chat-ta-nooga about Nov. 1 next?"

TREATY MAKES FOR PEACE OF WORLD

Agreement Between Great Britain and Japan is of the Utmost Importance.

London, Sept. 4.—Details of the Anglo-Japanese treaty are still inaecessible, but it makes Britain and Japan practically one power in respect to warlike developments involving either nation. The status quo in the far east is unqualifiedly guaranteed and all the principles dear to great trading nations are secured.

MAKES THEM ARBITERS OF ORIENT.

The treaty is thought to render Britain and Japan the arbiters of the orient and from Persia to the Pacific. Britain's relation to the compact insures the European powers against aggression at the hands of Japan, since any move against a European power or even against the United States would embarrass Britain's general foreign relations and hence would arouse its opposition. Britain means to hold just as fast to its friendship with France, for example, as to that with Japan, and if Japan, under the protection of the alliance, did anything against France the latter would hold Britain responsible. The same is true of the United States.

BRITAIN STANDS FOR JAPAN'S CONDUCT.

In a word, Britain becomes morally responsible to the world for Japan's conduct and intends to see that that conduct is proper.

City Prepared to Throw Open Homes

Denver, Colo., Sept. 2.—Thousands of visitors attracted by the G. A. R. encampment continue to pour into Denver. Although the crush began earlier than was anticipated, the local committee announces that even should the maximum estimate of the probable number of visitors be realized—150,000—none will suffer from lack of room. If necessary the citizens will be asked to throw open their houses to the city's guests. Mayor Speers has warned proprietors of eating-houses, etc., that the usual prices must prevail.

OBSERVE TODAY AS THE SABBATH

ADVENTISTS KEEP HOLY THE SEVENTH DAY OF WEEK.

HISTORY OF DENOMINATION

Interesting Account of the Rise and Progress of Sect and Their Principles.

Today is being observed, as the Sabbath by the Adventists at their camp-meeting in Palmer's Grove and special services were held this morning and afternoon and others will be conducted this evening. This one difference in custom from other Christian organizations makes interesting a history of the rise and progress of the sect. The name Seventh-day Adventist in itself reveals the fundamental principles which have given those called by that name a denominational existence. It signifies a belief in the seventh day Sabbath, and a belief in the second personal advent of Jesus Christ to this world.

The History
The definite history of the advent cause dates from August of 1831, when William Miller preached his first sermon on the second coming of Christ, and the end of the world. William Miller embraced Christianity in September, 1816, and began immediately an exhaustive study of the scriptures. As a result he came to the conclusion that the second coming of Christ would take place about the year 1843. He based this belief upon the vision of Daniel recorded in the eighth and ninth chapters of Daniel. In this vision Daniel was told, "Unto two thousand and three hundred days, then shall the sanctuary be cleansed." Dan. 8:14. From the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth verses of the ninth chapter this prophetic time was found to begin with the "going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem," which was 457 B. C. From 457 B. C. it was found that a day in prophecy is equal to one literal year. Thus reckoning 2300 years this side of 457 B. C., 1843 is reached. But as the decree to build and restore Jerusalem did not go forth till in the fall of 457 B. C. the end of the period of 2300 years would be in the fall of 1844.

First Steps
William Miller's first written statement announcing the second advent was a series of sixteen articles printed in the Vermont Telegraph, of Brandon, Vermont, beginning May 15, 1832. In 1833 Josiah Litch, of Lowell, Mass., a Methodist minister of great ability embraced the views of William Miller, and began to proclaim them. In 1833 Joshua V. Himes, of Boston, Mass., united with these laborers in proclaiming the Advent message. Under these strong workers the Advent message spread with startling rapidity. On the 26th of March, 1840, J. V. Himes began the publication of the "Signs of the Times." On October 15 of the same year the Advent believers met in a general conference in Boston, Mass., for the first time. The second general conference of Advent believers was held in Lowell, Mass., June 15-17, 1847, and the third general conference in the fall of the same year.

"Signs of the Times"
In 1842, only two years after the publication of its first issue, the "Signs of the Times" had no less than 50,000 readers, and more than 60,000 copies of various books and tracts had been issued. At the same time there were from three to four hundred ministers of the gospel engaged in giving the message. These statistics scarcely have a parallel in any religious movement in history. During the summer of 1842 many series of tent meetings with immense congregations were held in the eastern states and eastern Canada, and the following winter, in a manner almost too rapid to record, the Advent message was sounded. In fact, nearly all the ministers and churches opened their doors to the proclamation of the advent doctrine until the years 1844.

Were Disappointed
When at last the time set for the second appearing of Jesus Christ came, and the believers met with the sore disappointment that they were mistaken in their views, nearly all the churches turned against the Advent message. But a few remained faithful, and upon further study of the word of God it was found that the mistake made was not regarding the time, but was with respect to the nature of the event which was to transpire at the end of the period of 2300 days, or years. The result of this further investigating the matter was that they found the sanctuary referred to in Daniel 8:14 to be in the heavens. For we read in the eighth and ninth chapters of Hebrews that the true sanctuary is the heavenly. That the sanctuary made by the children of Israel under the direction of Moses was but a pattern of the things in the heavens. Thus the work was begun in 1844 was a work which is being done in heaven above, the cleansing of the heavenly sanctuary.

More History
But as we continue to trace the history of the faithful ones who believed that early message, we behold God's hand in the movement. The cleansing of the sanctuary is none other than the work outlined in the first angel's message of Revelation 14:6-7, which reads, "And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach to them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, fear God, and give glory to Him: for the hour of His judgment is come: and worship Him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters."

Reject Message
On account of the great disappointment, all the churches rejected the entire message. Up until this time those proclaiming the advent message had not separated themselves from the churches. But the rejection of the message on the part of the churches made it necessary for the few who stood loyal to the advent cause to heed the injunction found in Rev. 18:4, "Come out of her, my people, plie, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues." In this experience the second angel's message recorded in Rev. 14:6-7 became due. The message is, "Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication." The seventeenth and eighteenth chapters of Revelation show Babylon to be the fallen churches. Babylon means confusion. And if there was ever confusion, the history of the times of 1844 was an example. The advent cause owes its very existence to these first and second angels' messages of Revelation 14. Some people maintain today that since the Advent people were mistaken in the nature of the event of 1844 they may be mistaken with reference to the whole advent message; but in Rev. 10:9 we find this disappointment even to be prophetic of, where the angel gives the prophet a little book and asks him to take it and eat it up and in his mouth it was as sweet as honey, but the angel declared, "It shall make thy belly bitter."

The Sabbath
In 1844 the subject of the Sabbath question was first introduced to the people at Washington, New Hampshire. This too, was added light, and the faithful believers walked out upon the same by obeying the seventh day Sabbath of the Lord. Thus the message of the third angel in Revelation 14:9-12 was revealed. The mission of the Seventh-day Adventist people from that time to this has been the proclamation of this great three-fold message.

In 1848 the first general meeting of the Sabbath-keepers was held near Middletown, Conn., with about thirty persons present. In 1849 publishing work began. Among the early leaders in the Seventh-day Adventist movement were James White, J. N. Andrews and Joseph Bates. In Nov. 1850, the Second Advent Review and Sabbath Herald began to be published. This was the forerunner of what is now the main church organ of the Seventh-day Adventist people—the Advent Review and Sabbath Herald. The work then began to grow and between the dates of May 6, 1852, and May 12, 1853, eleven public laborers were added to those proclaiming the Sabbath and advent truth. Various conferences were held from this time down to 1861. Success attended the message and the work grew until it became necessary to organize after denominational manner.

The Conference
At a conference held in Battle Creek, Michigan, in 1861, the Advent believers took the legal name of Seventh-day Adventists. At this time the first Seventh-day Adventist conference was formed and was known as the Michigan Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Estimated statistics show that in 1863 there were six conferences, three thousand five hundred members, and thirty ministers. In 1873 these had been increased to thirteen conferences, one mission, two hundred thirty-nine churches, 6,500 members, 235 ministers, and an annual tithe of $20,000. These statistics show evidences of God's hand in the work. In 1893 there were 34 conferences, 11 missions, 1151 churches, 37,404 members, 460 ministers, with an annual tithe of $350,690. In 1903 there were 73 conferences, 48 missions, 2129 churches, 77,554 members, 936 ministers, and an annual tithe of $634,030.54. These latter statistics show the increase in the work in the decade from 1893 to 1903 the denomination more than doubled its conferences, and more than quadrupled its missions, nearly doubled in number of churches, and more than doubled in membership and number of ministers, and nearly doubled in the amount of annual tithe received. The Adventist people believe in the tithing system as outlined in the Old Testament, and ratified by Paul for the Christian dispensation. The tithe is a tenth.

A Publishing House
The first publishing house for the Seventh-day Adventist people was the Review & Herald office established in Battle Creek in 1855. At the present time their publishing houses number sixteen, including some publishing associations. These publish upwards of eighty-six different periodicals, representing thirteen different languages, besides vast numbers of books and tracts.

The educational work of Seventh-day Adventists was definitely organized in 1873. This, too, started mainly in Battle Creek, Mich. Shortly after the organization of an educational society what was known as Battle Creek College was started. At the present time there are nine colleges, six academies, and twenty-nine intermediate schools scattered throughout the world, besides several hundred church schools.

The medical work of Seventh-day Adventists was first institutionally represented by the establishing of Battle Creek Sanitarium in 1867. This work has also experienced wonderful growth. There are now upwards of fifty sanitariums and they can be found in all parts of the world. Besides these there are hygienic cafes, missions, health resorts and the like.

Are at Battle Creek
The headquarters of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists was in Battle Creek, Michigan, up until August 10, 1903, after which time the headquarters were removed to Washington, D. C. The headquarters of their publishing work, medical work, and educational work is also located in Washington.

There is scarcely a nation or country in the world into which Seventh-day Adventist missionaries have not entered. As to their belief they maintain the Bible and the Bible only as to be their rule of doctrine. They believe in the observance of the seventh-day Sabbath, the second advent of Jesus Christ to this world, in the resurrection of the righteous at the second coming of Christ, and in the sleep of the dead. They do not believe in a thousand years of peace in this world when all will be converted, but they believe as Christ said that this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the world for a witness to all nations and then shall the end come. They believe that this end is right upon us and that the signs of the times point to the early advent of Jesus Christ to this world.

The Wisconsin Conference of Seventh-day Adventists has its headquarters in Milwaukee. It has a membership of 3182 and one hundred and one churches, thirty-two ministers, besides medical missionaries, missionary licentiates and church school-teachers.

The children's meetings, and also the youth's meetings, are now organized on the grounds. Prof. Hallock of Bethel Academy is in charge of the young people's meetings, and Miss Mary Cook of Bethel Academy has charge of the children. Encouraging reports are coming in regarding these meetings.

A great interest is being manifested in the children's meetings. At these meetings the children are divided into classes with a teacher over each class.

ATHLETIC TALK FROM STATE UNIVERSITY

Return of Coach King Has Put New Life and Ginger into the Players.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 2.—On the eve of the commencement of the preliminary training of the Wisconsin football team at Marinette, "bearishness" is written in big letters all over the situation. This is quite in contrast to the situation of a few days ago, when it was given out that letters were being received from the candidates assuring a goodly bunch, perhaps forty players, to enter the northern Wisconsin camp. The non-arrival of a few important expected letters has caused Graduate Manager Downer much worry. Ex-captain, Irving J. Bush, who will play end for the badgers, again this year, is in Montana on a hunting trip and communications cannot be established with him. It is feared that he may not report until near the end of the three weeks' preparatory work at Marinette and it will be hard to get him ready for the Chicago game October 21. Wilson Burke, the veteran tackle, has reported that his employment cannot be thrown until at least two weeks more. Cummings, the star baseball pitcher, who is expected to be a leading candidate for quarterback, writes that he has been sick and the physician orders against his entering strenuous gridiron work until more fully recuperated. T. Jones, a leading candidate for fullback, is working and will be a week late. These and other features of similar nature caused Manager Downer to say:

"I cannot give you a good story, as everything now looks like a bad story for Wisconsin. Do not boost us, for the outlook does not warrant it. The inability of the regulars and leading candidates to commence early training is a bad thing, particularly in view of the fact that the Chicago game is early and will be the crucial test of the season."

Coaches King and Holt have not been in Madison and will not come here until after the preliminary work at Marinette. King has written friends here indicating his gratification with the representations as to material that have reached him, but declaring that an abundance of players will be necessary. His letters show that he is determined and earnest. It is said that he will prove to be the most serious football coach in the west this fall, for he left Wisconsin two years ago, a beaten coach, a "has been" of the gridiron game, and he consented to come back to Madison, for the purpose of showing not only that he is better than a graduate coach, but also to demonstrate his equality or superiority in competition with Yost, Stagg and Williams.

Captain E. J. Vanderboom takes a hopeful view of the situation. He says that the men have great confidence in Coaches King and Holt and that the preliminary work at Marinette will be "the real thing." The climate up on the border of the northern peninsula of Michigan is cool and bracing, permitting harder work from the start than would be possible in Madison. This is the real reason for taking the squad north. While some of the veterans will not appear Monday at Marinette, there will be a squad of about twenty, as follows:

Captain Vanderboom, halfback, playing his fourth year at Wisconsin, weight, 180 pounds; A. G. Findlay, end or tackle, fourth year, weight, 178 pounds; F. W. Grogan, halfback, won "W" last year, weight, 164 pounds; Knehmsted, quarterback, weight, 154 pounds; C. S. Perry, end, weight, 180 pounds; T. H. Brindley, tackle, weight 184 pounds; R. W. Kemp, center, weight 193 pounds; Voya Wrabetz, halfback, weight, 168 pounds; F. E. Hunt, tackle, weight, 184 pounds; Floyd Clark, fullback, weight, 173 pounds; Hirschberg, Wagner, C. L. Parsons, Glan, Larsh, Rosenthal, Lorenz, Robinson, Thompson, Peter Fischer and Rawlins.

Manager Downer has announced the revised and complete schedule for the Wisconsin team as follows: Sept. 23—Company I at Marinette; Sept. 30—Northwestern College at Madison; Oct. 7—Lawrence at Madison; Oct. 14—Notre Dame at Milwaukee; Oct. 21—Chicago at Madison; Nov. 4—Minnesota at Minneapolis; Nov. 11—Beloit at Madison; Nov. 18—Michigan at Ann Arbor; Nov. 25—Northwestern at Madison; Oct. 11—Chicago Physicians and Surgeons at Madison.

The Truth About PIANO TUNING

After examination if I find a piano that does not require tuning I say so. Found a piano the other day that had not been tuned for a year but was in excellent shape. Pianos need looking over usually at least once a year, some of them will stand examination more often.

the Record.

Though the mercury but once during the month of August rose as high as the 94 degree mark and ranged in the eighties the greater part of the time the average temperatures show to the period of thirty-one days to have been warmer by 1.8 degrees than the weather of July. Two hot spells, one of much regularity and of thirteen days' duration in the early part were responsible for this fact, July having experienced two days when the thermometer registered at the century mark but not having had any continued hot waves. The general average temperature for August was 74.9; the average low temperature, 63.6; the average high temperature, 86.3. The increases of these figures over the averages of the previous month are respectively as follows:

1.2 The lowest temperature reached in August was 6 degrees, this being registered on the twenty-sixth.

JURY FAILED TO REACH A VERDICT

In the Assault and Battery Action Brought Against W. D. McGregor—New Trial Set for Sept. 14.

From six o'clock to 9:15 last evening the jury trying the assault and battery action of the State of Wisconsin vs. William D. McGregor labored with the problem without reaching a unanimous decision. From the time the first ballot was taken the votes were 5 to 1 for acquittal. Finally the foreman announced to the court that the six were unable to agree on a verdict and Judge Finedt discharged them, setting a new trial for Sept. 14.

The Lowest Chicago Price On a Piano.

Everyone in Chicago knows that the way to secure a piano at the lowest price is to telephone, write or call on Lyon & Healy. This firm exhibits the largest and most varied stock of pianos in the world. Over 1,000 instruments are displayed side by side under their roof. All of these pianos are sold at low, fixed prices, which are the same to everyone.

The foundation stone of Lyon & Healy's success is to have every piano they sell act as a missionary, that is, be instrumental in selling many other pianos for them.

Lyon & Healy now offer to ship pianos to persons at a distance at precisely the same prices they ask for the goods in Chicago. Furthermore, they make a specialty of selecting instruments for persons at a distance. Skilled pianists go over the stock and pick out exactly the tone quality the correspondent desires.

This plan works so well that Lyon & Healy's shipments to the country are now very large.

The advantage of buying a piano from the great Chicago music house is self-evident. There is nothing to equal the pianos that Lyon & Healy offer at $150 and upwards. In the 20 great makes that Lyon & Healy sell, you will, of course, find Steinways, Webbers, Krakauers, Washburns and in fact, all the most desirable instruments of the day.

Write for their new and very beautiful catalogue entitled "A Piano Book." Address Lyon & Healy at 10 Adams St., Chicago.

Letter to Mr. William Henning, of Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: But few of the men who sell the hundred different paints in the market know much about them. All Devoe agents have a state chemist's certificate telling just what it's made of; they know a good deal, not only about Devoe, but the rest; we see that they do. We buy every paint, that has any sale, and analyse it. Our agent finds out all about it. When we know what a paint is made of, we know how it will act; we know how far it goes, and how long it wears.

Devoe is the standard; call it 100. The best of the rest is about 75; the worst about 25; the rest are between.

But the men who sell them don't know any better. They know what the maker tells them. That is; they know that he tells them. They don't know whether he tells them the truth or not.

The business is not conducted on knowledge; the less they know, the more comfortable they are.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devoe & Co.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSIN.

Is Rivalled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealsin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

ALMA YOULIN, FAMOUS PRIMA DONNA IN "THE FORBIDDEN LAND"

Those who have say that nothing better has been seen here. The land of comic opera is without definite limits; its realm is without restrictions; everything is possible, plausible and permissible. "The Forbidden Land" suggests many things—the bars are down. It takes its title from the forbidden land of Thibet, of which Lhasa, the forbidden city, is the capital, and where the scenes are laid. It was written by Guy F. Steeg, and he has brought his entire imagination into play. It is more than an opera of a comic sort; it is rich, ample and substantial as grand opera; as dainty as a romance, refined in every line, action and suggestion, and yet thoroughly entertaining, amusing, and hilarious. All the fun is funny, and of all pawn shops they see the sign of the three golden balls. It came about this way. In Italy during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the people were very poor and consequently the Jews, who were in the money-lending line did a very flourishing business at high rates of interest. In fact they were getting into their hands and consequently the people had no money to give to the church. The Medici family were then at the head of the Roman church, and as a protection to the financial interests of the same, established in nearly every city in Italy, places where the people could borrow money on their chattels at reasonable rates of interest, and in this way they

Fair and cooler.

"Great men are too often unknown—or, what's worse, mis-known." A great truth is not so apt to be known as "mis-known." It takes a lot of adversity space to keep a big store properly posed before the public camera.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

A Baptist clergyman in Chicago, by the name of Haynes, recently received a call from a Seattle church, at a salary of $8,000, indicating that he possesses pulpit talent of rare ability.

Mr. Haynes, like many other ministers, is favored by a half fare permit, which enables him to travel on various lines of railroad at reduced fare.

These special permits are good for the holder and members of his immediate family, and the honor is all the safeguard that the railway companies require.

Seattle is a long journey from Chicago and Mr. Haynes had a few friends who desired to make the trip with him, so he applied for tickets for himself and three members of his family.

The tickets were issued, but the Western Passenger Association, soon after became suspicious and made a demand on him for $92.00, the difference between the full and half fare rate. The money was paid and thus the fact was acknowledged that deception was practiced in securing the tickets.

Mr. Haynes would have gone to his new charge in the West without commotion, but he had some enemies who demanded a church trial, and through this medium the public and private life of the man was aired by the press of the country.

What did the trial amount to?
 Simply a whitewash. The reverend gentleman was exonerated and the Western Passenger Association severely criticised.

It is easy to understand how an individual, even though he be a minister, can satisfy his conscience on a question of this kind, but difficult to explain how a trial board can endorse such action.

Of course a railway corporation, especially in these days of reform, is regarded as a public crib, from which every man is entitled to plunder, if he can find a chance.

The doctrine is taught that these corporations are the property of the state and that they have so long defrauded the commonwealth that the individual citizen has a claim against them.

Many a man who would call it stealing to take a dollar from his neighbor's pocket, conceives to beat a railroad out of money, and justifies the deed.

The public conscience is blotted on this point, and the Chicago divine is a fair specimen of a multitude of people who have been contaminated by reform measures.

The man who walks into a store and purloins a pair of shoes worth $3.00 is called a shop-lifter, and if caught, he pays the penalty by loss of character and reputation, but the man who beats a railway company out of 100 miles fare, is $3.00 ahead, and commended for his commercial tact as a tourist.

A young woman was arrested in Boston, recently, and found guilty of defrauding railway corporations. She had been the victim of a dozen railway accidents in various cities from New York to San Francisco, and in every case paralysis of the lower limbs resulted.

Her demands for settlement were never very heavy, and were usually paid. The family which she supported assisted in the fraud, and her friends gave her credit for being unusually shrewd. It never occurred to any of them that the girl was doing wrong, and she was only detected by accident.

Railway companies are not the only sufferers in these days of erratic reform. In the world of organized labor the doctrine is taught to restrict the amount of production and the honor of labor. In other words, to give as little for the money paid as possible.

There are some lines of piece-work where a good workman can turn out all that he is permitted to in a day, between the hours of 9:30 in the morning and 4:30 in the afternoon.

The eight-hour day mania has struck the country, and the general government is largely responsible for setting the pace.

Organized labor does not stop to consider that whether a work day be six, eight or ten hours that the masses pay the bills, and restricted production simply adds to the cost.

When the labor day was reduced from ten to nine hours it meant an advance in cost of ten per cent.
 Should the time be reduced another hour it means another advance, effecting the cost of all manufactured articles where the New York work day is observed.

The time of an employer should be regarded as sacred as his money.
 The man who steals it or wastes it, is a felon and should be so regarded by his associates.

It is unfortunate for the country that some of its prominent officials are just now engaged in spending the people's time for private gain. Wisconsin and Missouri have reform governors of this class. The Chicago Chronicle recently said of these men:

"La Follette's monomania is railroads; Folk's is graft. Between the railroads and the grafters the country is bound for perdition at lightning speed. There are no railroads honestly conducted and everybody is a grafter. For these absentee executives there is no 'middle of humanity,' only 'the extremity of both ends.'"

In all of their diatribes, philippics, exhortations and ranting neither of them has ever disturbed the depths of the pool of thought, but they have lashed the surface into spray and spume under the impression that they have aroused a great storm.

Probably because neither is accustomed to deal with affairs except upon the surface it does not seem to have occurred to them that they are themselves conspicuous examples of the class of offenders they most frequently denounce.

Each of them was elected for the purpose of administering the executive affairs of his respective state, and each of them is paid a large salary for the work they are supposed to do. Their employment presupposes that they will be found at their respective offices attending to business. Indeed, as the reading public is well aware, there are for the greater part of the time employed in making speeches in various parts of the country, for which they also draw liberal pay.

"It is not recorded that either of them ever failed to draw his salary for the time he was absent from executive duty; hence the inference is plain that a great part of the time they draw two salaries. To do this involves neglect of duty no less reprehensible than when railroads neglect fully to perform the functions for which it is chartered. To accept employment for a stated time, drawing a salary therefore, and then to absent one's self from duty and perform services for pay elsewhere is not less a form of grafting than when any other individual gets something for doing nothing.

"Governors of states who are as frequently absent from their duties as Governors Folk and La Follette, who sell the time for which the state pays them to Chautauques, 'reform' associations and political clubs, are not justified in a wholesale arraignment of mankind as dishonest."

Like the Chicago preacher, they teach honesty, but what about the practice?

The standard of old-fashioned honesty, which needs no label nor defence should be revived. The church, society, and the world at large, will be better when this is done.

CLAIMS SHE HAD TO DO PLOWINGMRS. MCGREGOR VERY SEVERE ON HUSBAND

IN PRAYER FOR DIVORCE

Mr. McGregor Denies Charges of Cruelty and Violence, and Alleges That His Man Caused All Trouble.

Sensational charges and countercharges are made in the complaint of Mrs. Lola C. McGregor filed in the divorce action which she has instituted in circuit court and the answer made by her husband, William D.
 McGregor. The latter denies each and every allegation, charging him with evil and inhuman treatment of the plaintiff, contained in the first-named document. In addition to a judgment for divorce, Mrs. McGregor asks for the custody of four children of ages ranging from six to twelve, $650 for the use of personal property and moneys which the plaintiff claims, $1,500 for the value and use of real estate likewise claimed, $893 personal property and money which she alleges the plaintiff has taken and applied to his own use, the discharge by the defendant of a certain mortgage outstanding against said real estate, and the costs, disbursements, and attorneys' fees in the said action.

Married in 1892
 The action probably owes its direct origin to trouble which occurred on the McGregor farm on Racine street, about a half mile from the city limits, on July 26. The couple were married on June 29, 1892, and the defendant, formerly an instructor in the Milwaukee Normal, has been engaged in the avocation of farming for many years.
 According to the plaintiff in the action lack of harmony has existed in the home for three or four years past but the defendant alleges in his answer that good feeling prevailed up to the time of the advent of one Fred Kueck, an employe on the farm, in the month of October, 1904. H. L.
 Maxfield and Pierce & Fisher represent the plaintiff; and T. S. Nolan, the defendant.

Charges of the Plaintiff In her complaint in the divorce action Mrs. Lola C. McGregor alleges that during the past three or four years the defendant has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, being morose and sullen at frequent intervals, and refusing to speak to her at times for days and weeks; that on various occasions he has applied vile, obscene, and opprobrious epithets to her and accused her of being untrue to her marriage vows; that well knowing that she was not in good health, he has compelled her to strip tobacco, though at the same time she was doing all the housework for the family.

Claims She Had to Plow At various times, she alleges, the defendant compelled her to work by force and threats of bodily harm, to take the team and plow, to weed beets, and to do other manual work beyond her strength; that at times when angry he had threatened to beat her head off and that she was in great fear of him, he being, she alleges, a healthy, robust man of violent temper. When angry, she further asserts, he will beat his horses in a most cruel and inhuman manner. On the 23d of July she accuses him of applying vile epithets both to her and her mother, Margaret J. Inman, and of telling her to get out and never come back. She further charges that he threatened to take an axe and chop up the piano purchased by the plaintiff with money procured from her mother. On the 24th she charges that he left home and refused to take meals there. On the 25th, she charges that he seized her, kicked her in the stomach, legs, and arms; knocked her down and stamped on her breast with his feet; inflicting such serious injuries that a physician had to be called. By reason of this alleged beating and assault, plaintiff claims that she was confined to her bed many days and suffered severe and almost fatal sinking spells.

Accompanying these charges is the plaintiff's statement that she has at all times been an affectionate and faithful wife, that she has observed and kept her marriage vows, and that at all times she has used her best and utmost endeavors to assist the defendant in making the home pleasant, caring for the children, and accumulating property.

Defendant Denies Charges W. D. McGregor, in answer to these charges, admits that he has been sullen some of the time since May 30 last but asserts that his actions were influenced by and owing to private and domestic troubles. He denies the statement made in the affidavit of Maggie J. Murdoch that on July 26 he bruised or beat his wife. He admits that after a stormy scene in which he alleges she applied to him and his parents most opprobrious epithets, he gave her a slight shove with one foot but affirms that this was done with no force. Immediately thereafter, he alleges, she seized him by the shirt-collar, tore it open, and kicked him with both feet. Up to the time Fred Kueck was employed to work on the farm he asserts that their relations had been harmonious.
 His wife, he alleges, became unduly friendly with Kueck, occasionally combing his hair, putting it up in curl papers, slapping him with eggs, kissing him, and writing him letters when he went away. He denies that he has treated his livestock cruelly, or that he ever laid violent hands on his wife, except on July 26.

Those Who Interfered
 It is his opinion, he alleges, that if R. C. Inman and Maggie J. Murdoch, with their alleged mischief-making proclivities, had remained away from his home, there would have been no divorce action. The affiant states that he has real estate worth $10,000 and personal property worth $1,200 on which there is a mortgage of $4,000 with two years' accrued interest at five per cent and that he has 80 acres in the town of Bradford worth $3,000 and mortgaged to the extent of $2, 500. The restraining injunctive order issued against him on Aug. 25, preventing him from removing or disposing of property, was issued without any security on the part of the plaintiff, he asserts, to the effect that the defendant will be paid such damages as may be sustained by him by reason of the order in case the court decides in his favor.

Neighbors Uphold Him

Accompanying Mr. McGregor's answer are the depositions of a number of neighbors who testify that they have never witnessed any intemperate action or heard any vile, obscene or opprobrious language used by the defendant, or witnessed him strike his horses or cows with a club or any other object excepting a whip; and affirming that the defendant in their opinion is possessed of an unusually pleasant disposition and is particularly considerate of and kind to his horses and cattle. They further state that until the recent trouble between plaintiff and defendant they never heard of any quarrel between them and that it was the popular belief that they lived happily together; that the reputation of the defendant is unusually good in every respect in the community in which he resides.

 vits are: Harrison Smith, J. T. Boynton, CARNIVAL WEEK HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTSThe Ferrari Bros' United Shows Will Arrive Tomorrow Afternoon from Neenah.

All plans are now completed for the Eagles' carnival next week and the only person yet to be seen is the Weather man. If he consents to make the weather according to contract the week promises to be a lively one. The twenty-eight cars of the Ferrari Bros.
 United Shows will arrive in Janesville from Neenah tomorrow afternoon. The small boy will be in waiting for the event and will also take an officious part in the unloading of the great aggregation on Monday. By seven o'clock Monday evening everything will be in place and the fun will commence. The Ferrari Bros. cars are all sixty-foot lengths and really carry as much as fifty-six or seventy cars would. They are loaded to the brim and come direct from Ne-enah where the close tonight. They will arrive over the North-Western road. The big animal show is unique in its way, having the only family of hybrids in the world. Aside from this there are two hundred trained leopards, tigers, lions, wolves, pan-mas and other animals who do wonderful tricks. The Circus-Royal is another large show in which aerial feats are performed that are weird and startling. Then there is the Dog and Pony show. This is for little folks, grown-ups and everyone. The Crystal Maze, the Ferris Wheel, the Phi-lippino Midges, Jewels' Mamikins, "Manie," the most sensational dancer on the stage today, the Temple of Mirth and the great free street performance, these five acts daily, afternoon and evening, and the bands will make the city a gay place. The arrangement committee of the Eagles wish to again warn the public that no conflict, flour or return-balls will be tolerated. They have offered a prize for the best decorated window, and elaborate prizes for the vehicle parade Friday evening and the selection of the Queen of the Carnival the voting for which is now going on.

 Taking it all in all the week will be a lively one and full of enjoyment for all.

LABOR'S BIG DAY IN JANESVILLE

ALL FORMER EFFORTS ARE TO BE OBTAINED.

TWO BRASS BANDS TO PLAY

And Nine Free Vaudeville Acts Be Given on Streets—Grand Parade and Open Air Address in Morning

That Monday's big celebration of Labor Day will not only eclipse all former efforts of the kind in Rock county but will also surpass, in the variety of entertainment offered, any observance hitherto attempted by the cities of southern Wisconsin. Outside of Milwaukee, and northern Illinois, is a foregone conclusion. A big parade in the morning, an address by a gifted Chicago speaker, free exhibitions secured by the Trades Council on six platforms erected for the purpose, music by the Imperial band, five free acts donated by the Street Carnival management, and two comedies—the production of a fine comic opera which opens the season at the Myers opera-house, a grand ball at Assembly hall—these are a few of the features.

The Line of March
Chairman P. J. McKeigue, F. H. Gibbs, Fred Schmitt, Silu Dorn, and A. H. Burnham, who constitute the committee of arrangements appointed by the Trades Council, had already made preparation for a celebration of unusual magnitude for the big day when the advent of the big parade street carnival was announced. The parade people immediately identified themselves with the celebration, offering their band and the free acts already mentioned. The day's celebration begins with the morning parade which will form on South Academy street between Milwaukee and Pleasant streets at 9:30 a. m. and will move promptly at 10 o'clock. The line of march will be as follows: From South Academy east on West Milwaukee to Main; thence north on North Main to Prospect avenue; thence east on Prospect avenue to Bluff street; thence south on Bluff to Court; thence west on Court to South River street; thence on South River to West Milwaukee; east on West Milwaukee to Main; south on Main to the Court House park; where at half past ten o'clock Charles L. Brock, of Chicago, speaker of the Trades Union—Past, Present, and Future.

Formation of the Parade

The parade will form in two divisions as follows:

FIRST DIVISION:
Marchal—Fred Schmitt, Imperial Band.
Women's Union Label League.
Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' Union.
Bricklayers, Stonemasons and Plasterers' Union.
Carpenters' Union.
Plumbers' Union.
Sheet Metal Workers' Union.
SECOND DIVISION:
Ferrari Carnival Band.
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.
Harness Workers' Union.
Cigar Makers' Union.
Typographical Union.
Tailors' Union.
Retail Clerks' Union.
Machinists' Union.
Brewery Workers' Union.
Bartenders' Union.
Teamsters' Union.
Floats.

All merchants and manufacturers of the city have been invited to prepare floats for the parade and the showing will doubtless be a fine one. These vehicles will be stationed on Pleasant street near Academy, prior to the order for the procession to move.

Vaudeville Performances

Vaudeville performances will be inaugurated at one o'clock at stands erected for the purpose at the corner of East Milwaukee and Bluff streets; North Main street, near the fire station; the Corn Exchange square; the corner of River and Dodge streets; the corner of South Jackson and West Milwaukee; the corner of South Academy and West Milwaukee streets. The performances will change every thirty minutes and every act will be given at each standing with the exception of the sparring exhibitions between Sid Green and Kid Madden of Milwaukee, which will be restricted to the stands on the Corn Exchange, at the corner of S. Academy and West Milwaukee, and the corner of E. Milwaukee and Bluff. Some of the acts and performers will be: Duval's slide and life on the wire; "Great Gay," the hand-cling king; Wallace & Beach, comedy acrobats. The Imperial and carnival bands will disperse music throughout the afternoon.

Big Crowd Is Expected

The celebration has been heralded throughout the county and neighboring cities by the union labor organizations and the morning trains and interurban cars will doubtless bring in a big throng of visitors. The city will be prepared for them and no effort will be spared to make the holiday enjoyable for everyone.

As in Days Gone by

Sunday afternoon, if the weather permits, there will be a large attendance at the picnic to be held by the Concordia at Crystal Springs park. Besides a musical program and other amusements, a baseball game has been arranged between the Eagles and Red Sox, which promises to be of more than ordinary interest. Take the steamer Columbia and enjoy a pleasant outing up the river. Round trip, 25c.

Made Money: From conversation about the streets the ladies who had charged the Baby show last Wednesday fear the mistaken idea has become current that they made no money. On the other hand, the affair was most successful financially and a good nest egg has been put aside for another show next year.

$200,000 LOSS FROM THE HAIL

IN LEAF AREA BETWEEN THIS CITY AND MADISON.

IN TEN MINUTES' PELTING

Of Last Night's Storm, Finest Tobacco Crops in Years Were Ruined.

Ten minutes of last night's thunder storm during which time hail as large as hickory-nuts fell in a large area of the tobacco belt did over $200,000 damage in the area between Janesville and Madison. That is the rough estimate of John M. Lundh, foreman at the G. H. Rumrill tobacco warehouse, and he bases it on the most disheartening reports that have been coming in throughout the day. In many places the crop was veritably cut to pieces and little more than the stalks are left standing. South and east of Janesville the farmers are reported in some instances to be ploughing the tattered remnants under today. Orson Coon whose farm is on the Johnson road six miles east of the city and whose remarkable 12-acre field of magnificent leaf tobacco was expected to yield 2,800 pounds to the acre was mentioned in the Gazette of Thursday, October 24, had his crop cut so badly that it will not be harvested. He had contracted to sell it at ten cents straight. His loss will be between $3,000 and $4,000. J. L. Cronin of Spring Brook is reported to have little more than the stalks left in his field. Tom Welsh's crop of four acres is badly cut up. John Casey's crop is badly damaged. On the farm all along State street the leaves are reported to have been uniformly punctured in four or five places by the hail-stones.

Big Percentage Contracted

Leaf tobacco men hurried into the country this morning when the first bad reports commenced to come in. Greene & Greene who have large interests in the town of Center were unable to obtain any information over the telephone from that section as the wires were down. From that warehouse it is learned that on an estimate 75 per cent of the sound, merchantable tobacco in the state had been contracted for prior to the storm. Fisher & Fisher received reports that the leaf crops had suffered considerably in the town of Clinton and also in the northern section of the county.

Little or No Wind

No estimate can be offered as to how large a percentage of the leaf is in the sheds. The cutting had but just commenced, the crop being a little late this year, and it was expected that the bulk of it would not be harvested before the middle of September. For every one of the finest crops in the years and extra good prices were the rule, owing to the fact that the acreage was smaller than heretofore. The pelting received last night did Rock county irreparable damage and the full report of the damage done will constitute the worst tidings received here for many years.

In the Locality

Reports from Jefferson state that the full extent of the damage will not be ascertained for days yet. While the storm was in progress Frank Reinel dropped dead from heart disease. Four inches of hail fell and half of the town of Jefferson was under water. Lightning struck several houses and roofs were torn off and homes flooded. Portions of the railroad track to Ft. Atkinson are reported as washed away.

At Madison

At Madison the dome of the Capitol ruins was struck. The Mayor's house also felt a severe shock. Plate glass windows were broken and the telephone and telegraph companies suffered severe losses. At Watertown Mrs. Edward Fitzpatrick was killed by lightning, while her six-year-old son, who was in the room with her, was not injured. Chicago also suffered.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

(Interview with James Sheridan.) James Sheridan returned from Ireland on Wednesday, where he has been for the past seven weeks. In conversation with a reporter for the Gazette he said: "I was born in Ireland and had been absent twenty-four years. Naturally I found many changes there during that time. Many of my old friends and acquaintances are now dead, and the boys and girls with whom I used to play, I hardly recognized. Many of them are married and have families. I enjoyed my visit very much and made a study of the conditions. For the most part people are contented, but there is one drawback, however, and that is low wages, but an effort is now being made to secure factories. Much of the land is very rich, and in other sections stock raising is very profitable. The climate is ideal; no cold weather and no hot summers. The people over there have much to say about the hot weather in America. They read in New York papers about the heat prostrations, etc. While I think my native land is all right and I have no criticism to offer—at the same time I was glad to get back to America again."

Because the bride wishes to give the occasion a romantic and historic setting, Milwaukee is to be the scene of the wedding of William Wilberforce Crawford of El Paso, Texas, formerly of the Janesville Gazette staff, and Miss Mona Ethel Richards of Chicago, which was announced some weeks ago in these columns. The ceremony will be performed on Tuesday at sunset in the old-fashioned home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Howes, uncle and aunt of Miss Richards. There her grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Fowle, pioneer residents of South Milwaukee, lived many years ago. Mr. Fowle was the first white child born in the city. There the bride's mother, and she, herself, were born. The grandparents now live in a spacious new residence a few yards distant which faces the bay and is known as Lake View. At the ceremony the only attendants will be Miss Dora Crawford of Mazomanie and Arthur Crawford of the Madison State Journal, sister and brother of the groom. Their father, the Rev. William Crawford, D. D., who was forced to resign the pastorate of the Mazomanie Congregational church last Sunday because of the impending blindness, will read the service. Afterwards the bridal party will walk through the apple orchard to the grandparents' home, where a reception will be held for one hundred guests. The wedding is the culmination of a college romance which began two years ago at Oberlin College where the bride and groom were students. The former is a daughter of Harry S. Richards of 5454 Greenwood avenue, assistant superintendent of the Chicago south side parks. The honeymoon trip will be made to El Paso, Tex., which is to be their future home.

At five-thirty this afternoon a number of Janesville people will leave for Chicago en route to Denver, Colorado, where the thirty-ninth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held next week. They will take a tourist sleeper over the St. Paul road from here and at Chicago be attached to the Commander's train, known as the "Copeland Special," which goes over the lines of the C. & M. & St. P. company and the Union Pacific system. Among those who will go are Captain and Mrs. Philly Norcross, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Randall, Mrs. W. G. Wheeler, and Mrs. N. Dunwiddie. Miss Dora Richards of Broadhead, E. S. Wain of Albany and several from Beloit will be in the party.

This afternoon little Miss Helen Hart is celebrating her fifth birthday assisted by some eighty-five of her little friends. The party is being held on the lawn of the Echlin home in the first ward. FARMER'S REST.

The big hitch, board, food and sales barn erected and opened for business last fall by D. C. French, is a worthy enterprise and is appreciated by thousands. A reporter for the Gazette called on Mr. French yesterday and was shown through the place. Here are accommodations for one hundred rigs regularly and from three hundred to ten cents per hitch. Extra occasions at ten cents per hitch. Twenty cents for food and the everything has been thought of and the best accommodations to patrons, especially women, is guaranteed. "How much have you got invested?" said Mr. French. "I don't know," said Mr. French, "but I put fifteen carloads of lumber into the building, besides the brick. I was raised on a farm, and I know the needs of the man who tills the soil. I got my ideas in regard to this business while traveling in Illinois. My combination sales which are conducted from time to time, have proved a big success and that is a feature of the business."

MONSTER LEAF DEAL EFFECTED

MORE THAN THIRTY THOUSAND INVOLVED.

EASTERN MAN DOES BUYING

John Sculman and O. H. Soverhill Packing Taken—More Purchases Made.

Mr. McSherry, a "big" tobacco dealer from McSherry, Pa., was in Janesville yesterday and today and made some of the largest purchases of leaf that have been effected here for considerable time, two packings for which more than thirty thousand dollars was paid having been taken yesterday afternoon. The leaf was from John Sculman & company's house and the M. H. Soverhill & company's. The buyings were of 1,027,034 packings, Mr. Johns being in the field for all tobacco at an available price and for large amounts. He visited numerous other warehouses and effected deals which involved large sums. Mr. Johns was in Broadhead this morning and though the report could not be confirmed this afternoon it is believed he bought heavily there. Fisher & Fisher of this city are the western representatives of Mr. Johns.

Carl Yates Home: Carl M. Yates, who has just completed his first year at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, returned home last evening to spend a month's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Yates. He served a year and a half in the navy under an enlistment before receiving and accepting an appointment to the naval academy.

Carries or Decay of the teeth is the most prevalent disease to which man is liable, and there is none other which affects so large a proportion of the human family. No other disease entails so much suffering, especially if we include those ailments that arise as the direct consequences of dental caries. The micro-organisms or germs, which cause this decay, habitually grow in the human mouth, and when conditions are favorable, rapidly produce caries. Keep your teeth perfectly clean and free from food particles, and you will be practically immune from this trouble.

Patterson of this city, and Dr. Strong of Beloit, were chosen delegates from this Senatorial District to represent it in the Union State Convention to be held at Madison on the sixth instant. They are understood to be favorable to the nomination of Judge Noggle for Attorney General, and "forrest" Mr. Bennett. Those who pretend to know say that the delegation from this county will stand eight for Noggle and six for Bennett, so far as the Attorney Generalship is concerned. We have no knowledge of the preference of any delegate as to the other state officers.

Facts and Figures.—Madison pays a larger internal revenue tax than Janesville, Beloit and Watertown combined. Here are the figures: Janesville, $21,094.41; Beloit, $10,034.54; Watertown, $7,074.51. Total, $38,203.46. Dane county pays, $53,329.85; Rock, $39,394.21. This tells where the wealth is and where the business is done.

The income tax, only, of Madison is $32,292.75; of Janesville, $14,408.74—less than one-half—while Watertown pays only $3,507.66—Madison Capital.

It doesn't precisely tell, Mr. Capital, "where the wealth is and where the business is done," but it tells where the past four years have been the military headquarters of the state, where the soldiers who have rendezvoused there in large numbers have been mercilessly skinned in the innumerable purchases they have made. That's what's the matter.

OSTEOPATHIC NOTES

That You May Know of Osteopathy and What it Is Doing For Humanity.

(Edited by Dr. Hugh Ross Bell of Bell & Settle, Osteopaths, 405 Jackson Block.) Osteopathy Cures.

Osteopathy cures to stay cured.

The reason that cures by Osteopathy are permanent is that Osteopathy removes the cause.

For those persistent headaches, stomach troubles, constipation and most diseases of women there is a positive and permanent cure in Osteopathy.

Osteopathy aids nature to reconstruct the wrecked bodies of the sick, the cure is a matter of nature's handiwork, not a matter of drugging.

In contentment we are dead. It is discontent that is ever urging us onward. We plead guilty to being discontented with the failures and abuses of old methods of healing the sick and wish to spread the gospel of nature's plan far and wide. Osteopathy's message of health restoration without drugs should be free to every inhabitant in every land.

New hope comes to sufferers from nervous disorders with the advent of Osteopathy as a healing art. It scores gratifying successes in those cases because its method of treatment is natural. As nothing is closer to put the body upon an artificial basis, progress under this treatment is reliable and is not to be expected to retrograde after the patient is pronounced cured.

Nature is imperial majestic, marvelous in her restorative powers, she is ever at work, with no hours of rest by day or night, to restore the normal condition, whether the trouble be a broken bone, a wound or disease. How great the conception that all that can be done to save a human life, no matter how many ailments or weaknesses, will be done by Nature, if duly guarded and skillfully aided by her hand-maid, Osteopathy.

Blood feeds the nerves and the nerves in turn control the circulation of the blood. Thus the cycle of health always involves both twin agencies of vitality and the starting point of disease, when not due to violence, is sure to lie with one factor or the other. Osteopathy proves that mechanical obstruction to either system is the usual starting point of disease.

Instead of closing it removes such obstructions to blood and lymph circulation or to nervous energy. It is the first system of therapeutics to teach that ill is due to disordered mechanics within one's own body. That is surely good common sense. No wonder the new drugless system of healing is so popular. It deserves recognition because it is rational and it cures.

As evening drew on, conversation lagged, and they rode silently together, keeping doggedly to the work in hand in spite of the flagging energies of their horses and their own bedraggled weariness. The rain fell with pitiless steadiness, and darkness came on early, with no chance of a moon being visible that night. The welcome light of a town twinkled ahead at last, and they resolved to stop there unless the risk threatened to be overwhelming. At the outskirts they learned that they had reached Clitheroe, and that the Star Inn offered fair accommodation for man and beast. They were not to reach Yorkshire that night, and had accomplished less than thirty miles from Manchester.

All night long the rain lashed down, but at daybreak it ceased, although the heavy clouds hung low in the sky. After a good breakfast the two set out and were not molested or questioned as they passed from under the shadow of the castle at Clitheroe.

CHAPTER XXX.

DESPITE the night's rest, the horses were still after the long struggle with rain and mud the day before. If the situation was to be saved by a race there seemed little chance of success with animals so tired and discouraged. With the exception of the departure from Oxford, the riders were more silent and melancholy than at any other time during their journey together. They had discussed the case in all its bearings the previous night, before the blazing fire, and had come to the conclusion that it would be safer to part.

Armstrong was now in a country that he knew reasonably well, and he had no need to ask his direction from any chance comer, which was an advantage to a fugitive. They had agreed to deflect toward the east and bid goodby to each other at Kirby Stephen, he striking northwest to Penrith, and she taking the main road east, entering Durham at Barnard castle. There was no blinking the fact that while a parliamentary trooper might pass through this land unquestioned, especially as so many soldiers were making their way north, a trooper with a beautiful young woman of aristocratic appearance would certainly cause comment and excite curiosity.

The nearer they came to Carlisle the greater would be the danger of embarrassing questions. They had a wild country to traverse, bleak hills and moorland, and the roads as bad as they could be; but, although they left Clitheroe at 5 o'clock it was past noon before they reached Kirby Stephen, a distance of less than forty miles. They had met no one, and so far as the morning section of the journey was concerned, the road to Scotland was clear enough. At the squallid inn of Kirby Stephen they partook of what each thought was their last meal together for a long time to come, and then, in spite of her protests, he accompanied her east out of the town and into the lonely hill country. At last she pulled up her horse and impetuously thrust out her right hand, dashing away some tear drops from her long lashes with her left.

"Goodby," she cried, the broken voice bellying the assumed cheerfulness of the tone. "I cannot allow you to come farther. You must now bid farewell to your scout."

"Dear lass, it breaks my heart to part with you in this way," stammered William, engulfing her small hand in both of his, then drawing her to him. "It shames my manhood to let you go this wild road alone. I must see you to your own door, in spite of all the Cromwells that ever broke their country's laws."

"No, no," she pleaded. "We went over all that last night and settled it. I am safe enough. It is you who are in danger. You will come to me when this trouble is passed and done with."

"By St. Andrew, I'll come to you as soon as this letter is in Traquair's hands!"

"Again, no, no! Cromwell is a hard man, and if you steal through his cordon you must not come within his power in a hurry."

For answer he kissed her protesting lips again and again, then she hid her face in his somber cloak and sobbed quietly. The patient horses, now accustomed to any vagaries on the part of their owners, stood quietly close together.

"Goodby, goodby, goodby," she cried breathlessly, then whisked herself from him and was gone, never looking back, but waving her hand as she rode. He sat motionless as she had left him. At the top of the distant hill, outlined against the dark sky, she drew in and stood. Dimly he saw the flutter of something white in her waving hand, and he drew from his breast her own handkerchief and waved in return. He pressed his hand across his eyes and, when he saw more clearly, only the black sky and the bare hilltop confronted him.

The rain began to fall once more as he passed again through Kirby Stephen, but he paid slight heed to it and pushed on to Penrith, where he bought a day's provender, so that he would have no need to make request for food as he neared the danger spot. Just before darkness set in the sky cleared somewhat, and he saw ahead of him the gloomy bulk of Carlisle castle. He turned aside from the main road, and before the night became black found quarters for himself in a barn that contained some fodder for his horse. He threw himself down on the fragrant hay and slept peacefully.

In the morning the rain was again falling steadily. He reconnoitered his position. There was no dwelling near, and he determined to let his horse rest all that day and the next night, so that he should be in trim for anything that might happen when the pinch came. A day more or less could make little difference with the effectual guarding of the bridge, which was now doubtless held as strongly as it could be. He was convinced that success must depend ultimately on the speed of his horse, and he could not enter the contest with an exhausted animal. Bruce was never so carefully tended as on the day before the crisis, and as his intelligent head turned toward his master he seemed to know that something unusual was afoot.

On the second day Armstrong thought it best not to enter Carlisle too early in the morning. He wished to mingle with a crowd and not to ride the streets alone. The second night in the barn, with the rest of the day and the night before, had left both himself and his horse fit to face anything that might ensue. The day was fine. The clouds had cleared away, and the sun was shining on the sodden ground. When he came in sight of the main road he saw what appeared to be an army marching north. Far on toward the gates of Carlisle rode a group of horsemen, and at the rear another squad of mounted men encouraged the laggards to keep up for a little longer. Armstrong sat on his horse until the latter company was abreast of him.

No one asked Armstrong who he was, and the elaborate fiction he had prepared to account for himself was not called for. The troopers were worn out by their contest with the elements and the roads, and all curiosity was dead in them. There stood Carlisle in front, and that was enough. The foot soldiers struggled on, in no definite order of formation, each doing the best he could. The officers rode silent behind them. Thus they all marched into Carlisle without question, and in their company the man the army was seeking. After a slight delay, and pause in the streets the new troops moved on to the castle.

Armstrong found no difficulty in falling behind, being thus free of the town. He knew every turn of every street and lane in the place as well as he knew the inside of his own pocket. He resolved to ride leisurely to the bridge, cut through the guard, if it did not prove too strong, and then trust to the spur. The town was thronged with military, but no one paid the slightest attention to him. As he jogged along very nonchalantly, more contented with the prospect than a few days before he would have thought possible, Bruce awoke the echoes by neighing loudly.

"Now, old man, what did you do that for?" whispered William. He looked ahead and was stricken speechless for the moment by seeing Frances Wentworth on her horse, without doubt a prisoner, two troopers riding on either side of her and a young officer in front. She had unquestionably seen him, for her brow was wrinkled with anxiety, but her eyes gazed steadily past him into the distance. As he made toward the party they flashed one look of appeal upon him, which said as plainly as words, "For heaven's sake, ride on and do not recognize me!" But the young man was oblivious to everything except the fact that she was in some trouble.

"Where are you going with this lady?" he demanded of the officer. "You may well ask," said the man in no accent of pleasure. "We have come across country to Carlisle under orders from one in authority, and now we must take her back to Durham, where General Cromwell is stationed, and there are the orders of some one else."

"But it is all a mistake!" cried William.

"That's what I'm telling you," said the man, with a short laugh. "This lady is the sister of Captain Wentworth of our regiment."

"So she says. Others say she is the woman who was with the French renegade. I know nothing of it and care less. I obey orders."

"Sir," said Frances calmly, "I beg you not to interfere. It is a mistake that will be explained in due time, but these men must do as they are told. That much you should know."

Although her words were spoken harshly enough, her eloquent eyes were bringing him to his senses and a realization of the unwisdom and futility of his behavior. Before he could speak again, a sharp voice behind him rang out:

"Why are you loitering there? Get on with you!"

Without turning he knew who the speaker was, and if he had not the gleam of fear in the girl's eyes might have warned him of peril.

"This man questions my orders," said the officer.

"No man has a right to question your orders. Who is he?"

Armstrong was edging away, but De Courcy spurred the horse he rode in a semicircle to cut off his retreat. Instantly the Frenchman raised a shout that echoed through the streets of the town and arrested every foot within hearing. "The Scot! The Scot!" he roared,

"Stop that man; never mind the woman. After him!" Sound the signal and close the bridge. The thousand pounds are mine!"

Now Bruce was doing his best down the main street of Carlisle. A dozen shots splattered fire harmlessly, and a big bell began to toll. Armstrong was well ahead of the troopers who followed him, and he gained ground at every stride. The pursuers were continually augmented from each lane and alley and came thundering after the flying man like a charge of cavalry. A turn in the road brought the bridge in sight, and Armstrong saw it was guarded only at the end nearest him, and that merely by two lone pikemen. He would now throw down like grass, he said to himself as he drew his sword.

"Stand aside," he yelled. "The Scot is loose, and we're after him!" The men jumped aside, glad they were not called upon to arrest such a progress as they beheld coming down upon them. It was apparently one of their own officers who commanded them, and there was neither time to think or question. As the horse's hoofs struck the bridge the deep crash of a cannon boomed from the castle, and before the fugitive reached the center there arose at the other end of the bridge—he could not guess from whence they came—a troop of horse, as if the thunder of the gun had called the company magically from the earth. Bruce stopped on the crown of the bridge at a touch of the rein, quivering with excitement, raised his head and gave a snort of defiance at the blockade ahead of him. Armstrong glanced back; the bridge had closed on him like a trap, both ends stopped by forces impossible for one man to contend against.

"That cannon shot did it. Well planned," he growled to himself, his horse now drawn across the bridge, alert for the word of command whatever it might be. Below the swollen Eden, lipping full from bank to bank, rolled yellow and surly to the sea. Right and left at either end of the bridge stood a mass of steel clad men, impregnable as the walls of the castle itself. De Courcy sprang off his horse and advanced with a valor which Armstrong, sitting there, apparently calm, had not given him credit for.

"He's my man!" he cried. "Shoot him dead if he raises his hand!" Then to the Scot: "Surrender, quietly. You have no chance. A score of muskets are turned on you."

"If they shoot some of them will wing you. Better warn them not to fire," replied Armstrong mildly, as if proffering to a friend advice which did not concern himself.

"Do you surrender?" "Come and take me if you are anxious for the thousand pounds. It's worth the money."

The Frenchman hesitated, edging cautiously along the parapet, so that if his friends shot he would be as much as possible aside from the line of fire. Seemingly his confidence in their marksmanship had not been augmented by Armstrong's warning.

"If you raise your hand to a weapon," said De Courcy, "they will fire on you, and I cannot stop them. They will not wait my word."

"I know. I shall not raise my hand." The Frenchman dashed forward and seized the bride of Bruce.

"Come quietly!" he shouted. "I will," said Armstrong. He leaned forward, said sharply to his horse, "Over, my lad!" and smote him a rising blow on the shoulder with his open hand. The horse raised his powerful front and stood poised for a moment like a statue, then launched himself into space. As De Courcy felt his feet leave the stones he let go the rein and fell sprawling on the parapet, but Armstrong leaped over and grasped him by the loose folds of his doublet.

"Come down with me, you traitor!" he cried. There was a scream of terror, and the next instant the river roared in Armstrong's ears. When he came to the surface he shook his head like a spaniel, looked aloft at the great bridge, the parapet was lined with troopers, all stricken motionless as if they had been transformed to stone. De Courcy, one moment aloft, struck for help, then sank again. Armstrong knew that the paralysis on the bridge would not last long, and he turned his horse toward the bank of raw clay.

"No one in command up there apparently," he muttered. "We must make the most of it, old man!"

The panting horse, breathing laboriously, essayed the bank and slipped back. Armstrong let loose his sudden cloak and flung it on the flood, turning the horse that he might take the ascent at an angle. The crowd still stared at him as if it were a show they had come out to see. Bruce, his feet once more on firm ground, shook his mane and gave forth a wild whinny of delight. Now the voice of command came in a blast of anger from the bridge:

"After him, you fools! What are you staring at?"

"Too late, my lads, I think," ventured William as he leaped his horse across the ditch that divided the fields from the road. Once the followers came near him, and he turned in his saddle, threatening them with his pistols, and they, forgetting that his powder was water soaked, fell back.

CIRCUS CLOWN TELLS TRUE STORY.

William LaRue of the Norris & Rowe Greater Circus is known as "Happy Billy," the Story Teller.

One of the cleverest clowns in the world is with the Norris and Rowe greater circus this season. His name is William LaRue, but is better known by the sobriquet of "Happy Billy," the story teller and children's friend. Billy is quick to appreciate the funny side of any happening and recently took a good joke on the Norris and Rowe managers that those young gentlemen did not care to have published. The story is as follows:

A few days ago, Prof. D. C. Smith, the famous band leader, was in disposed and wishing to lay off a day or so he selected one of the members of the band to act as a leader in his place. The member in question had long had his eye on the coveted position and had firmly resolved that when the opportunity came, he would be prepared to do full justice to the position. He wished to show the owners what a mistake they were making in not engaging him instead of Prof. Smith. Getting the large corps of musicians into the dressing tents as soon as Smith got out of sight, the ambitious embryo leader gave parts of a new spectacular selection to the assembled musicians. The enormous tents that afternoon were filled to capacity; the concert about to begin and the leader all excitement. He had carefully schooled his companions and the latter used to obey strictly, and did not question his bidding. With a grand crash of music, the concert was commenced. Prof. Smith, who could not tear himself away until the selection had started was astounded to hear the following piece given. A roll of thunderous drums; the shrill cry of fire; the clattering hoofs of the fire horses tearing down the street; smoke and flame ascending from the musicians' corner; the hoarse cries of the firemen and all the crashing noise of a huge conflagration. Smith and the immense audience was stunned at the suddenness of the catastrophe and were too dazed to move. The hundreds of employees rushed hither and thither trying to locate the blaze which could not be seen. In a final burst and crash of brass, the music of the band ceased and the understudy for the regular leader rose to bow his acknowledgment for the realistic piece of spectacular music. When the audience realized it was but the music that made the fire, they sank back into their seats, but all thoughts of illness were swept away from Prof. Smith and after kicking the misguided leader from the tents, he resumed his sway with the baton, while the heretofore flushed and triumphant understudy slunk away into the darkness. It was a frightful scare for everyone, said LaRue and spectacular pieces of music, especially with fire scenes in it, have been omitted from the program of the Norris and Rowe Greater Circus. At Janesville, after noon and evening, September 12.

Chicago Tribune: No one will grudge M. De Witte the keen joy he gets from the results of the peace conference. So far as he has exercised the powers of a plenipotentiary he has acquitted himself well. A shade too much of self-congratulation perhaps there has been. A statesman of the elder school would scarcely call the correspondents about him to remind them how extraordinary clever he had been. M. De Witte did not forget to put in a saving clause awarding the chief credit to his imperial master. It would be inconvenient to have the czar turn envious and be disagreeable when the "plenipotentiary" gets home.

Brain Workers.

Brain workers suffer from headache because they over-tax and exhaust the brain nerves. Tired, irritated, turbulent brain nerves throb and ache; this weakens the brain power, and robs the memory.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills bring tranquility to the excited nerves and stop the pain. If not relieved, this nerve disturbance is frequently extended to the stomach, causing nausea, vomiting—sick headache.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are convenient to take—just a little tablet, that in a few moments relieves the pain; they leave no disagreeable after-effects, as they contain no opium, morphine, cocaine or chloral in any form.

"From personal experience I can testify that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most excellent remedy for headache and neuralgia. I have been a great sufferer from these diseases for the past three years. A friend who had also suffered from neuralgia handed me some of the Anti-Pain Pills. I took them and they gave me almost instant relief. Since then I have a package at home, and another at the office, and they never fail to relieve me." R. C. MEGARRY, 337 S. Sawyer St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

HAVE NO FEAR OF EPIDEMIC

Prussian Authorities Confident They Can Handle Cholera.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Although forty-three cases of cholera have been reported up to date, with nine deaths, the Prussian authorities are sure they have an organization in a medical and legal way which can successfully combat the invasion of the Asiatic bacillus. Quarantines have been established wherever needed and regulations are in effect which keep the danger of a spread of the disease down to a minimum. Whenever a suspicious case is found the person is immediately detained. This detention regulation has resulted in holding over 1,000 persons until they can successfully establish their freedom from the disease.

The authorities are confident an epidemic like that of 1892-93 can be prevented.

READ HIS REMARKABLE LETTER.

THE COOPER MEDICINE COMPANY.
Gentlemen: I am most anxious to testify to the merits of Cooper's New Discovery and Quick Relief. For many years I have been a victim of Rheumatism, at times the pain was so severe that it was almost unbearable. I have treated with a number of specialists without finding relief. I read about the Cooper Remedies and the remarkable cures they were effecting and decided to try them. I purchased the New Discovery and Quick Relief and in a short time after I began their use every trace of Rheumatism had disappeared. I also know of several others who have been greatly benefited by the use of these remedies. (Signed) L. C. SIMPSON, Burlington, Wis.
